Could you please give me a list of all the retired LEGO sets and the LEGO sets that will retire?
Adam Jones, 11
Texas

I tried to put a list together for you, Adam. But as you might know, retired LEGO sets go to Florida, where they sit on the beach and play "Go-Fish" all afternoon and talk about the "good old days." Once in a while, they play some golf (but they're always getting run over by the carts). If I hear from any, I'll tell them to call you.

I am a BIG LEGO Fan, especially of your BIONICLE™ line. What was the inspiration for the BIONICLE sets, and why is there no Makuta set?

Steven O'Connor, 13
Massachusetts

My crystal ball says that the idea for BIONICLE came from the same place so many other great ideas have come from – the imaginations of some really talented LEGO people. And they keep coming up with more new ideas every day, so I predict a lot more BIONICLE excitement to come! As for Makuta, well... stay tuned.

Who was the Founder of the LEGO Club?
Melissa Prater, 13
Tennessee

I founded it! That's right, me, the Amazing Redini! I was sitting home and I said to myself, "Someday Melissa will want to be in a LEGO Club, so I better create one," and — what? Oh, I'm supposed to give her the right answer...? There was no one founder of the LEGO Club — everyone at LEGO wanted a way we could share cool ideas with you and see what you were building with your LEGO bricks.

I can't think of anything to build. My LEGO sets are really outdated. Please help me!
Dave Gottschalk, 13
Florida

What's that? Your LEGO sets are out dating? Are they old enough for that? Do you let them have the car keys? Oh, wait a minute... sorry, Redini reads too fast sometimes. Dave, what you want is www.LEGO.com/build, which is full of tons of building ideas. I predict you will find plenty to inspire you there!

Oh, and you'll find me (and more questions and answers) at www.LEGO.com/build too!

Yoda™ Rules at Star Wars™ Celebration III!

More than 27,000 Star Wars™ fans of all ages turned out for Star Wars Celebration II May 3-5, 2002, in Indianapolis, Indiana! And all eyes were on the world's biggest Jedi master - a LEGO sculpture of Yoda himself.

This amazing model was constructed on the spot by LEGO model designers and fans. Builders wore special LEGO Yoda® shirts reading, "There is no try. There is only build, or build not."

Everyone had a great time turning the smallest Jedi into the biggest LEGO Star Wars model ever built. All we can say is, the force must have been with them!

CHAMBER OF SECRETS

X-Games Champion Andy Macdonald rides for BIONICLE™

BIONICLE fans Jack Morrin, Kyle Cole, Bryan Maekawa and Erik Rogne got a truly golden opportunity: the chance to skateboard with seven-time X-Games champion and ultimate BIONICLE fan, Andy Macdonald.

It was all part of the Ultimate BIONICLE Power Bash, held March 2002 in San Diego, California. This special weekend included a street skating clinic with the champ, a special BIONICLE dinner at LEGOLAND® California, and a sneak peak of upcoming BIONICLE products! Andy not only gave the kids some great tips, he even recruited other skateboarders in the park to demonstrate their techniques.

Andy Macdonald is one of the world's most accomplished skateboarders. He took first place at the 2001 X-Games and the 2000 Gravity Games and has won five World Cup Skateboarding overall points championships. Andy has been skateboarding professionally for eight years. His sport has taken him across the US, to most of Canada and Europe, and to Australia, New Zealand, Malaysia, Japan, Brazil, Puerto Rico, Scandinavia and the Middle East.

HOW TO DO AN OLLIE

1. Position your front foot sideways on the mid section of the board and back foot in the tail.

2. Compress your body like you're going to jump.

3. Start your jumping motion but let your back foot smack the tail on the ground first!

4. As you hit the tail on the ground your front foot that was placed on the middle of the board should make its way up to the front of the board. This will even out the board in the air and lift your back wheels off the ground.

5. Always wear your helmet and pads when skateboarding and never skate alone.

6. Take it easy and slow at first and, with practice, you can become a high flying pro, too!

The ollie is with most skateboarding tricks it's all about timing. Think about all the different steps to it, and then you'll get into one motion. Skateboarding tricks are something you have to work at. Frustration is bound to happen, but when you finally land a trick, nothing feels better.

FUN FACT: Andy Macdonald's teammate Danny Wainright holds the highest ollie record at 44.5 inches! That kid's got pop!

Heard on the Street!
Can you match the skateboarding term up with what it means?
Answers at the bottom.

1. Air
2. Fakie
3. Nollie
4. Goofyfoot
5. Carve
6. Mongo-foot

- A. An "ollie" performed by tapping the nose of the board rather than the tail
- B. Riding with the right foot forward
- C. Riding with all four wheels off the ground
- D. Pushing with your front foot instead of your back foot
- E. Riding backwards
- F. Riding in a long, curving arc

Warning: Do not attempt to duplicate any stunts that are described here. Always use discretion and wear the appropriate safety gear.

Rescue Brick Race!

Jack Stone is headed around the world to help people in trouble – and he's invited you and your friends to come along! Race around the globe and see who can collect the most rescue bricks on the way!

To play, you will need:

One LEGO® brick for each player, each in a different color. A pile of LEGO bricks that can be used as "rescue bricks." A six-sided die like the ones found in most board games.

Rules

Everyone begins at the "Start" square. Roll the die to see who goes first. Move around the board, following the instructions on the squares as you go. The player who finishes the game with the most rescue bricks wins!

ROBOTICS FEVER HITS THE NATION

Kids Nationwide Take the FLL Challenge!

On April 26th & 27th, 2002, top FIRST LEGO® League (FLL) Teams joined together from across the nation in the 2nd annual FLL National Invitational Event. Only twenty teams out of 1,700 across the U.S. were selected to share in the honor of competing at the event which was held at Walt Disney World's Epcot in Orlando, Florida.

Thousands of kids from the United States, United Kingdom, Scandinavia and Germany feel the excitement of participating in FLL competitions!

FLL, created in a partnership between FIRST (For Inspiration and Recognition of Science and Technology) and LEGO Company, is a friendly, high-tech sporting event that challenges kids to design, program and build fully autonomous robots using the LEGO® MINDSTORMS™ Robotics Invention System™. Teams are generated through schools, Boy and Girl Scout troops, YMCAs, and other youth groups. Form a team with your friends and you could be an FLL champion! You get 8 weeks to build your robot and complete your assignment. Then your team can compete in local, regional and state tournaments, where awards are given for teamwork, design, research, and how well your robot performs on the FLL playing field.

Join in the 2002 FLL Challenge!

The construction site has been identified and FLL teams are the field experts. You'd better double-check your three maps, put on your hard hat, tighten up those work boots, and get your lights to join in the 2002 FLL Challenge – Key Light!

If you're between 9 and 14, you and your friends can be part of the 8th Annual FLL Challenge! Design, build and program a LEGO® MINDSTORMS® robot, then compete against other teams to see who can solve a real-life science problem the fastest! Visit www.usfirst.org/robotics to see if there is an FLL tournament in your area!

Here's How:

1. Get a team of 5-10 friends together and think of a team name.
2. Find a coach to help out.
3. Go to www.usfirst.org/robotics and register your team.
